Knight Oil Tools Names Henry General Manager of Advanced Safety and Training Management

Lafayette, LA—October 23, 2014— Mark Knight, president and Chief Executive Officer of Knight Oil Tools, announced today that Brady Henry has been named general manager of the company's Advanced Safety and Training Management service line.

Advanced Safety and Training Management specializes in custom quality, safety and training programs, safety inspections and comprehensive consulting services for the oil and gas, communications/tower, utility, construction and manufacturing industries.

Henry has more than 14 years of experience in the oil and gas industry. Prior to joining Knight Oil Tools, he was the facility manager for a major pipe and rental tool provider. His previous positions include quality health and safety manager, HSE coordinator and Sr. chemical/petroleum lab manager.

"Brady's experience with ISO requirements, environmental initiatives and facility operations makes him uniquely qualified for the opportunities and challenges of this position," said Knight.

Henry earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Environmental Science and Chemistry from McNeese State University. He is a member of the Gulf Coast Safety Training Group and the American Society of Safety Engineers.

Focused on providing "zero-failure" equipment and service for more than 40 years, Knight Oil Tools has grown to be the largest privately held rental and fishing tools business in the oil and gas industry. Operating from more than 50 locations across 11 oil-producing states and internationally, Knight Oil Tools serves all phases of a well's lifecycle from exploration to abandonment.
